Researcher(s): Dr Akilah Jardine and Dr Alison Gardner

We are inviting you to take part in our research project, which aims to explore businesses' understanding of modern slavery and their attitudes towards engaging in local anti-slavery activities. This research will be used to help us understand business needs on this agenda, and enable local agencies to plan future training and awareness initiatives. Participants are requested to complete an electronic survey which will take around 15 minutes. All types of business are strongly encouraged to participate. More information about this research can be found in the attached participant information sheet.

You can access the online version of the survey at:
